

You really are an angel?

(Key of E)

1                      4                      5                      1
The driving rain has swamped the road for mile after mile
4                      1                      5
It feels as though this summer's lost its way
4                      5                      1                      6-
But my heart is full of sunshine when I think about your smile
4    5
And it keeps me feeling sunny through the day

4                      5                      1                      4                      1                      5
Could it be you really are an angel ----- sent to me from way out of the blue?
4                      5                      1                      6-
I thank the Lord you found me ---- you've changed the world around me
4    5                      4                      5                      1
Now all I ever think about is you ----- all I ever think about is you

1                      4                      5                      1
I think about your brown eyes and the sweet smell of your hair
4                      1                      5
And I think about your breath against my skin
4                      5                      1                      6-
I lie awake and think about the weekend drawing near 4    5
When we can be together once again

(Chorus)

1                      4                      5                      1
The odds on finding love are set against you from the start
4                      1                      5
It seemed like it was never meant to be
4                      5                      1                      6-
I'd given up believing I could mend this broken heart
4    5
That love would ever make its way to me

(Chorus)
